Wyoming Army National Guard teaching military science at LCCC

CHEYENNE – The Wyoming Army National Guard is helping students at Laramie County Community College (LCCC) develop their leadership skills and get a taste of military life, as an officer, through the Army ROTC program.

The Army ROTC program, at LCCC, does not require military membership, or a future military commitment.

The courses are taught by Wyoming Army National Guard Soldiers. The Army ROTC courses will cover topics including developing leadership skills and styles, time and stress management, health and fitness, Army customs and courtesies, map reading and an introduction to basic infantry tactics.

Army 1010-01 is the introductory course, offered Monday and Wednesday, from 10-10:50 a.m., at LCCC's Cheyenne campus.

Army 2010-01 is the second course, offered Monday and Wednesday, from 11-11:50 a.m. Both courses include a leadership lab, offered Wednesdays, from 3-5 p.m., at LCCC's Cheyenne campus.

Army ROTC students may also participate in the Army ROTC physical fitness program, Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, from 6-7 a.m.
